Archival Experience:

Marshall University

Huntington, WV

Archivist and Digital Preservation Librarian

April 2019–present

- Manage processing, description, and preservation activities for physical and digital manuscript collections, including a concentrated project to process 450 collections, migrate finding aids for more than 750 collections from physical documents to full-text searchable PDFs in an institutional repository, and inventory and reorganize 3,000 linear feet of materials over the span of seven months.
- Administrate the archive's implementation of PastPerfect and Digital Commons, including using Python to automate metadata cleanup and crosswalk of metadata from PastPerfect to XML files for eventual Digital Public Library of America ingest.
- Research and begin the implementation of the institution's first digital asset management and digital preservation plan, using Python to automate deduplication of digital assets, calculate checksums prior to and after a file is moved to preservation storage, and discover where files are missing or need repaired.
- Supervise student employees in processing and inventory tasks, including migrating PDF and Word finding aids to CSV files that are then converted into EAD using Python.
- Provide reference services, instruction, and outreach to students, faculty, and community members, including workshops for K-12 teachers on using archives in their teaching.
